MARINE FACILITY SECURITY TRAINING

COMPLY WITH MARINE REGULATIONS AND IMPROVE SECURITY AT MARINE FACILITIES.

Commissionaires offers training courses to help your organization satisfy Marine Transportation Security Regulations (MTSRs) that require Canadian ports and marine facilities to have employees security trained. These regulations were enacted in 2004 by Transport Canada and impact port authorities and marine facility operators across Canada.

Commissionaires offers two courses, Personnel with Security Responsibilities (PWSR) and Personnel without Security Responsibilities (PWOSR or sometimes referred to as Security Orientation) which will ensure employees are trained to meet MTSRs. We'll work closely with your Marine Facility Security Officer (MFSO) to ensure our courses cover MTSR requirements and deliver site-specific needs aligned with your security plan.

WHY SHOULD STUDENTS TAKE THIS TRAINING?

Commissionaires' marine facility security training courses allow employers to meet the training standards set out by Transport Canada's MTSRs and improve the security of marine facilities.

WHAT THEY WILL LEARN

Commissionaires' comprehensive marine security courses satisfy Transport Canada's MTSR requirements for marine facilities staff so that they are trained in all areas of marine facility security.

Courses offered:

PERSONNEL WITH SECURITY RESPONSIBILITIES (PWSR)

- Content includes hands-on practical skills and theory on:
- > Current security threats and patterns;
  - > Recognition and detection of weapons, explosives and incendiaries, and other dangerous substances and devices;
  - > Recognition of the characteristics of persons who are likely to threaten security;
  - > Techniques that might be used to violate or circumvent security procedures, equipment or systems;
  - > Crowd management and control techniques;

- > Security-related communications;
- > Emergency preparedness, response and contingency planning;
- > Operation, testing, calibration and maintenance of security equipment systems;
- > Inspection and monitoring techniques;
- > Methods of performing physical searches of persons and goods, including personal effects, baggage, ships' stores and cargo;
- > Relevant provisions of the marine facility security plan;
- > Meaning and the requirements of the different MARSEC levels; and
- > Security Clearance Program.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND PWSR

Personnel assigned to a marine facility, and who have responsibilities respecting the security of the marine facility, should receive PWSR training as per Transport Canada's MTSRs.

PERSONNEL WITHOUT SECURITY RESPONSIBILITIES (PWOSR SECURITY ORIENTATION)

Content includes general information and overviews of:

- > General safety and security orientation;
- > Basic security issues and communications;
- > Meaning and the requirements of all MARSEC levels (including emergency procedures and contingency plans);
- > Recognition and detection of weapons, explosives and incendiaries, and other dangerous substances and devices;
- > Characteristics and behavioural patterns of persons who are likely to threaten security; and
- > Techniques that might be used to violate or circumvent security procedures, equipment or systems.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND (PWOSR SECURITY ORIENTATION)

Personnel assigned to a marine facility and who do not have security responsibilities should receive PWOSR Security Orientation as per Transport Canada's MTSRs.
